European Studies (EUST)

EUST 200 Ideas of Europe and European Identities 4 Units
Terms offered: Spring 2022, Spring 2021, Spring 2020
Ideas of Europe and European Identities engages with a critical reflection on the notion of Europe and European identities, either from a historical and/or a contemporary perspective. It provides a critical explanatory analysis of issues relating to European history, European borders, integration and disintegration, migration, transnational Europe, postcolonial Europe, and/or the position of Europe in a globalized world.

Course Objectives: This course has been specifically created for graduate students enrolled in the Designated Emphasis in European Studies. The course can be offered by any faculty member of the Graduate Group in the D.E. in European Studies. European Studies 200 will serve as one of the two integrative courses for the program regarding methodology and research skills. The course topics may vary in accordance with the specific expertise of the faculty member(s) teaching the course. Members of the Graduate Group will be encouraged to co-teach this course or to invite other members as guest professors to their seminar.

Student Learning Outcomes: The goal of this course is to provide the necessary intellectual background for top quality scholarship in the field of European Studies as well as to provide cohort cohesion and intellectual exchange across disciplines.

Hours & Format
Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of seminar per week

Additional Details
Subject/Course Level: European Studies/Graduate
Grading: Letter grade.

European Institutions and Social Conflicts 4 Units
EUST 201 European Institutions and Social Conflicts 4 Units
Terms offered: Fall 2021, Fall 2020, Fall 2019
This course engages with a reflection on European institutions and social conflicts, either from a historical and/or contemporary perspective. It provides a critical explanatory analysis of issues relating to European Institutions such as the EU Commission, Council, Parliament and Court of Justice, the European Central Bank, the European Investment Bank, the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe, as well as general issues relating to the European economy and/or social and political conflicts within Europe.

Course Objectives: This course has been specifically created for graduate students enrolled in the Designated Emphasis in European Studies. The course can be offered by any faculty member of the Graduate Group in the D.E. in European Studies. European Studies 201 will serve as one of the two integrative courses for the program regarding methodology and research skills. The course topics may vary in accordance with the specific expertise of the faculty member(s) teaching the course. Members of the Graduate Group will be encouraged to co-teach this course or to invite other members as guest professors to their seminar.

Student Learning Outcomes: The goal of this course is to provide the necessary intellectual background for top quality scholarship in the field of European Studies as well as to provide cohort cohesion and intellectual exchange across disciplines.

Hours & Format
Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of seminar per week

Additional Details
Subject/Course Level: European Studies/Graduate
Grading: Letter grade.